Ir is to be much regretted that during the recent extensive law reform which has taken place in the Colony, no step has been adopted with a view to a consolidation of the various local ordinances. The statutes of the United. Kingdom are generally considered such as to dely the acutest lawyers thoroughly to muster them, and Hongkong appears to have. been anxious to follow the Home Rule in this respect, and for once at least to have thoroughly succeeded. Of all the unfortulegislation, the Hongkong Ordinance Book and a ship. is probably the greatest. A glance at it will show that the same things are over and over again treated in different ordinances, and it requires the greatest care and circumspection to be sure that one gets at the right law, to bad no licence for his boat. say nothing of the difficulty of understanding it when one has arrived at this point. This shortcoming was partially remedied some time ago by the publication of a very excellent index, compiled by Mr. Listen, under the guidance of Judge Bart : but unfortunately this only embraces the ordinances up to 1865. and cannot now be relied upon as an index to existing law. It would, however, form an excellent ground work for a completion of The ordinance book to date, and it would be very desirable that some steps should be ! taken to republish the ordinances in such a form as would make them perfectly clear to the general public, and climinate what is quilt.

As regards the actual compiling, probably no one could be found more likely to do this well than Mr. LISTER, who has shown himself careful and systematic in such matters by the index which has been published, and who would doubtless be able to give valuable aid by the knowledge which he possesses as to what has already been from Mr. Tonnochy, that a girl was dying in for it. She yesterday, in effect, repeated her evidence given on the trial in Common Pleas, deposing to ber knowledge of Roger Tiubborne, and to ber recognition of the defendant as Koger. She also, in answer to Dr. Kenealy's questions, told the incident known only to herself, to Moore, the butler at Tichborne, who died shortly after Roger sailed in the Pauline, and to Roger, It jury how the defendant had reminded her of anseems that, at the ball at Tich borne, which was $5771 to $580. The witness also told the jury how, when first she saw the defendant, she said, "Don't speak; sit.down, and let me look at you;" how the de-fendant laughed, and said "Well?" and how she then said, "The eyes and eyebrows are Roger Tichborne's, but the voice is not;" how she further said, "The hands are Roger's;" and how the defendant said. "Whose else should they be?" and, finally, how she was perfectly persuaded and convinced that the defendant was Roger Tichhorne, and no one else, Miss Braine is if we may be allowed to describe the personal appearance of a lady-a very resultite, determined, and self-possessed person, with set features, a quiet voice, and a most imperturbable manner. The irony of the Alterney-General she answered at the last trial with frony of her own. The short, sharp thrusts of Mr. Hawkins she parried as best she could, but without the least evidence of emotion. Knowing his witness, Mr. Hawkins wont straight to his point. She knew, he reminded her, the tale the defendant had told about the seduction of his consin, and of his subsequent interview with her, at which she had begged him to marry her. Did she still say he was a perfect gentleman? The question perplexed Miss Braine not a little; but Mr. Hawkins held ber to it, until lie got the definite answer that ber estimate of the defendant's "manners" as a gentleman had been in no way shaken by his cross-examination-that she (Miss Braine) bad stayed in his house after she had learned hisaccount of the contents of the sexled packet, and that she thought, for her part, that," if wo were to out all one friends against whom we

" I am not imputing any impropriety to you, Alise Braine, said Mr. Hawkins, in his own manner. " reply, was the quiet reply, without the least betrayal of annoyance. Further pressed, Miss Braine emphatically denied. that she had even corrected the defendant's letters, coached him up in his French, or other, wise assisted him in the conduct of his case. She had heard it suggested that he was Arthur Orton, but she had also heard it suggested that he was a dozen other people, Mr. Thomas Case amongst others, and un illogitimate son of Sir James Tichborne. To Miss Braine succeeded one of the "pore

101st Day,-24th September. The old members of "Roger Tichborne's Own," as the Carabineers is now affectionately termed, are, as a rule, stalwart, bandsome men, with a well-to-do look about thom, as of men who have found the world pleasant, and have prospered in it. Their old military drill has had its effect upon their demeanour and bearing They stand bolt upright in the box: shoot out their answers as if they were up in the orderly room; and were never less than positive. First stepped into the box Mr. Arnold Humlet, once troop sergeant of Carabineers, and at present troop sergeant-major in the Lancastice Yeomaury. Sergeaut Humlet drilled Roger Tichborne, was sergeant in his troop, and remembered him well. "I see him in court," said he in reply to the eastomary questions put by Dr. Kenealy. "I can point him out. There he sits." Through this formula of recognition also went Mr. Thomas Boardman, ex-Carabinear, and at present licensed victualler and brewer at Blackburn. Occasionally Mr. Hawkins finds n witness amusing, and Mr. Boardman's ac- viz:count of a meeting at the Bull at Blackburn, Detrobed & some detached Dwellat which were present not only Mr. Pickup, the druggist, and Sergeant Marks, but also the Mayor himself, and at which champague was | Other dwelling Houses, used strictdrunk, and the defendant's cause otherwise advocated, was peculiarly comical. "Who else was there?" seked Mr. Hawkins insinustingly. The Mayor." rapped out Mr. Boardma "! The Mayor!" repeated Mr. Hawkins; with an nir of ineredulity. "Yes, the Mayor." "What! had the Mayor been in the Carabineers?". usked the learned counsel gravely. "No," was BATAVIA SEA AND FIRE INSURANCE the reply. "Had Pickup, the druggist, been in the Carabineers?" "No." "Then it was the importance of the occasion that induced the Mayor to come to the Bull P" said Mr. Hawkins with all the gravity in the world. "Yes, it was," Mr. Boardman thought; and to Mr. Boardman followed Mr. Peter Taylor, groom at Knapthorpe and ex Carabineer, who was quite certain that the defendant is Mr. Tich. borne, and whose wife, Murtha Walker-berself "a Carabineer" and officer's servant-had waited upon Mr. Tichborne, and unbesitatingly identified the defendant as him. Mr. Charles Phillips, who followed, is at present a warder in the Kent County Gaol. He was Sergeant Iustructor of Musketry in the Carabineers, and he carries the Crimonn and Turkish medals and four good conduct stripes. Warder Phillips, however, had none of that sangfroid about him which marks his colleagues. So nervous did be become in the box that the Lord Chief-Justice asked him at last if he had not been drinking, and the jury interposed to express their opinion that it was idle to proceed with his examinaremarks from Dr. Kenealy, and, soldier-like, Mr. Phillips brightened up at the smell of established since 1855, at Endicott's Lane, and quarte pages. powder, and from that moment gave his evi- that he has always a great quantity of BEST

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Angro-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

TAOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is Rates will be charged for Fire Insurance cises for students of a most instructive flature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on graphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers' Vocabularty contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medburst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst Press Office, or to the following Agents:this work contains, more than 50,000 English Macao Messrs.
